Hospice previews new Pepper facility

Comments

June 17, 2010

By TONY A. SOLANO tsolano@pioneerlocal.com

Hospice and Palliative Care of Northeastern Illinois' new Pepper Family Hospice Home and Center for Care will begin hosting patients on July 1, but Barrington area residents will have an opportunity to tour the facility on June 27 during a grand opening celebration.

The 42,000-square-foot in-patient and administrative facility features 16 units for terminally ill people in the final days of their lives who can no longer be cared for in their homes.

"There are circumstances that can develop when a person can't remain in the care of their loved ones in their own home," said Hospice board member Roxy Pepper.

The new facility sits on 6.7 acres located at 450 Lake Zurich Road, adjacent to Citizens Park and Pepper Construction. Hospice representatives said the facility is expected to serve about 1,400 patients a year.

Hospice serves about 20,000 patients per year, over 90 percent of which are cared for in their own homes, said Lynn Miller, a Hospice account specialist.

Hospice of Northeastern Illinois has an in-patient facility in Woodstock, but Miller said the location provides a more central location given the Barrington-based nonprofit organization's service area. She said the facility provides an alternative to hospitals when providing end-of-life care for terminal patients.

"When a patient is going through a crisis due to a change in their condition, we can now provide them with much-needed care at our new Pepper Family Hospice Home so they can return to their home or living situation in better condition," said Cindy Musikantow, CEO of Hospice of Northeastern Illinois.

Although the goal is to stabilize patients, most are nearing the end of their lives, by the time they would enter the Hospice home said Eileen Grace, chief nursing officer. Grace said Hospice was mindful to make the rooms as warm as possible to allow patients and their families to feel at home.

Each room features a kitchenette, a television, a pull-out couch for family members who decide to spend the night and a private patio that patient beds can be easily rolled onto to enjoy the landscaping.

Grace said it was important to make the rooms comfortable but functional, so medical equipment is concealed whenever possible. There are also security cameras in each room that can be turned on or off at the preference of the patient.

The facility also features several family gathering areas, a spa room, a meditation room, massage and pet therapy rooms and offices for Hospice's family counseling and bereavement support programs. The building also houses administrative offices for Hospice employees who moved from the previous office at 410 S. Hager Ave.

Hospice and Palliative Care of Northeastern Illinois' new Pepper Family Hospice Home and Center for Care will begin hosting patients on July 1, but Barrington area residents will have an opportunity to tour the facility on June 27 during a grand opening celebration.

The 42,000-square-foot in-patient and administrative facility features 16 units for terminally ill people in the final days of their lives who can no longer be cared for in their homes.

"There are circumstances that can develop when a person can't remain in the care of their loved ones in their own home," said Hospice board member Roxy Pepper.

The new facility sits on 6.7 acres located at 450 Lake Zurich Road, adjacent to Citizens Park and Pepper Construction. Hospice representatives said the facility is expected to serve about 1,400 patients a year.

Hospice serves about 20,000 patients per year, over 90 percent of which are cared for in their own homes, said Lynn Miller, a Hospice account specialist.

Hospice of Northeastern Illinois has an in-patient facility in Woodstock, but Miller said the location provides a more central location given the Barrington-based nonprofit organization's service area. She said the facility provides an alternative to hospitals when providing end-of-life care for terminal patients.

"When a patient is going through a crisis due to a change in their condition, we can now provide them with much-needed care at our new Pepper Family Hospice Home so they can return to their home or living situation in better condition," said Cindy Musikantow, CEO of Hospice of Northeastern Illinois.

Although the goal is to stabilize patients, most are nearing the end of their lives, by the time they would enter the Hospice home said Eileen Grace, chief nursing officer. Grace said Hospice was mindful to make the rooms as warm as possible to allow patients and their families to feel at home.

Each room features a kitchenette, a television, a pull-out couch for family members who decide to spend the night and a private patio that patient beds can be easily rolled onto to enjoy the landscaping.

Grace said it was important to make the rooms comfortable but functional, so medical equipment is concealed whenever possible. There are also security cameras in each room that can be turned on or off at the preference of the patient.

The facility also features several family gathering areas, a spa room, a meditation room, massage and pet therapy rooms and offices for Hospice's family counseling and bereavement support programs. The building also houses administrative offices for Hospice employees who moved from the previous office at 410 S. Hager Ave.

Pepper Construction served as the contractor for the facility. Roxy Pepper and her husband, Richard, a former Pepper Construction chairman, sold the property to Hospice and donated $3 million to the new facility. The facility was named after the Pepper family for its contributions to the project and Hospice organization.

The building is seeking silver-level certification within the Leadership In Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) green building rating system. LEED-certified buildings are more energy-efficient and have less negative impact on the environment. Some requirements for certification included having lighting operated by sensors throughout the facility and using rain barrels and other means of capturing rain so it could be used to water the landscaping.

The June 27 celebration will include a ribbon-cutting at 12:30 p.m. followed by children's games, family activities, a visit from "Mr. Duck," a nature walk through the gardens, complimentary aromatherapy, guided visualization and massage therapy and more.

Pepper Construction served as the contractor for the facility. Roxy Pepper and her husband, Richard, a former Pepper Construction chairman, sold the property to Hospice and donated $3 million to the new facility. The facility was named after the Pepper family for its contributions to the project and Hospice organization.

The building is seeking silver-level certification within the Leadership In Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) green building rating system. LEED-certified buildings are more energy-efficient and have less negative impact on the environment. Some requirements for certification included having lighting operated by sensors throughout the facility and using rain barrels and other means of capturing rain so it could be used to water the landscaping.

The June 27 celebration will include a ribbon-cutting at 12:30 p.m. followed by children's games, family activities, a visit from "Mr. Duck," a nature walk through the gardens, complimentary aromatherapy, guided visualization and massage therapy and more.
